BIG CHANGE IN W. M. SCHEDULE

First Train over Western Maryland Railway under New Schedule will Arrive in Gettysburg at 9.40. Other Changes.

By the new schedule of the Western Maryland Railway which goes into effect on Sunday the time of every train is changed and in several cases the schedule is widely different from that under which the road has been operating during the summer months.

The train now due here from Highfield at 7.55 a. m. is changed to 9.40, making a difference of an hour and three quarters in the time the Baltimore papers will reach here. It is probable that much of the mail which has been coming in on that train will now be brought over the Reading and arrive here at 9.15. The present 7.55 over the Western Maryland got people from Gettysburg into Philadelphia at 1.10. The new train will give connections to reach Philadelphia at 2.40.

The train from Baltimore now due at 10.08 is changed to 10.04; the 12.10 train from York to 12.49 and on its return this train will leave Gettysburg at 1.09 instead of 1.00 p. m. The 3.23 for Baltimore and intermediate points will have 3.18 as its schedule time and the evening train west will leave at 6.35 instead of 7.13. The evening train from Pen Mar is discontinued and the 10.04 and 6.35 will be run daily, the other trains daily except Sunday.

No advice has been received at the Reading station of any change in schedule and it is likely that the time under which they have been operating for the past year will be continued.

COUNTY MAPS

The State Highway Department has received the first of the installment of maps of the roads of the state which the State main highway act required it to publish for sale to the people of the state. The maps are arranged by counties and show every road, the work having been done by engineers of the department. These maps are to be issued for every county in the state and under the law are to be sold at cost. They are finely printed, with township and borough lines shown, and will be invaluable to automobilists and hunters.

The lot of the maps includes the following counties: Perry, Delaware, Wyoming, Pike, Clarion, Bucks, Juniata and Fulton. Seven more are expected within a short time. These maps are the first official road maps ever issued by the state.

Although it will be a month until the big hunting season begins, the State Forestry Department is already receiving numerous applications for permission to camp on state forestry reserves. The reserves, especially in the South Mountain region, lie in some of the best deer country in the state and as the game is reported as abundant a great hunting season is expected. The western preserves are also said to have a number of finders.

Mrs. Mary E. Hammers died Thursday, September 26, at her home in Highland township, aged 79 years, 4 months and 16 days.

She was the widow of John Hammers, the well known woolen manufacturer who died December 5, 1894. She leaves one son, S. S. W. Hammers, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Edward Newman and Mrs. J. B. Myers with whom she made her home, together with 16 grandchildren. Four children preceded her in death.

She was a consistent member of the Church of the Brethren, from her girlhood days. It was her delight to entertain strangers. Before the church at Marsh Creek was enlarged, nearly every Love Feast occasion she would gather from twenty to fifty strangers and take them to her home for the night. NO NEW TRIAL FOR HOOVER

Cumberland County Court Refuses New Trial to George B. Hoover, of Bendersville. Sentence has not yet been Imposed.

Cumberland County Court on Thursday handed down an opinion in the matter of the motion for a new trial in the case of Commonwealth vs. George B. Hoover, proprietor of the Bendersville hotel, in which case Hoover was charged with pointing a gun and so forth. The court refuses a new trial.

The case was tried along with a cross suit against four young men. The motion for a new trial was made by Herman Berg, Esq., counsel for Hoover, on the ground that the petit jury found Hoover guilty upon certain counts on which the grand jury had not found a true bill.

The fourth and fifth counts charging pointing a gun and carrying concealed deadly weapons, were however found true bills by the grand jury and it is upon these that the Commonwealth insisted that Hoover should be sentenced. This was affirmed by the court.

John D. Failer and W. A. Kramer, Esqs, were counsel with the District Attorney, for the Commonwealth and Mr. Failer and Mr. Kramer also represented the four defendants in the cross suits.

Sentence has not yet been pronounced.

Lafane, the Republican nominee for Congress in the Twentieth district. Robert C. Bair is the Washington party choice for Congress.

It was announced that Republican candidates for the Legislature will also fall in line in the "Ball Moose Party" column, and that the arrangement will add to the convenience of voters who favor Roosevelt for President yet desire to vote for Lafane and the remainder of the Republican candidates.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Harper Shetter, who drives the wagon of Robert Shetter, the East Berlin butcher, in New Oxford, several times each week, had a narrow escape recently that he is not likely to forget for some time. The gentleman was in the act of crossing the railroad near the New Oxford station when the evening train going East came in sight. Mr. Shetter, to hurry across the tracks when he saw the train approach, struck his horse with the whip, which caused it to balk squarely on the track and all efforts failed to make it move. Very fortunately the engineer applied the emergency brakes, and the train was brought to a standstill less than five feet from the team. After some delay the animal was finally gotten to move and the train went on its way. Mr. Shetter was badly frightened, as were a number of eyewitnesses, who felt sure that a collision could not be averted.

REBEL LEADER EXILED IN PANAMA

Head of Nicaraguan Uprising
Surrenders to Americans.

MARINES RELIEVE CITY

Women and Children Were Starving
In Granada When United States Marines Arrived.

Washington, Sept. 27.—General Luis Mena, leader of the Nicaraguan revolutionists, has surrendered, with 700 followers, to the United States, and is to be sent to Panama under guard of American sailors and marines.

American Minister Weitzel reported to the state department that Rear Admiral Southerland had accepted the surrender of General Mena and his force on Sept. 24. His capture is taken to indicate the collapse of the revolution and his removal to Panama probably means exile.

It is not thought that General Zedon and his forces will attempt to hold out, now that the head of the revolution has given up. Little importance is attached to the announcement by Juan Irias, former follower of Zelaya, to succeed General Mena. Irias made known his ambition before leaving San Jose, Costa Rica, several days ago. Nothing has since been heard of his whereabouts.

Officials in Washington believe that General Mena requested that he be permitted to surrender to Admiral Southerland from fear of summary action at the hands of the Nicaraguan federalists, and the admiral doubtless thought it advisable to get the rebel leader out of the country as soon as possible.

State department officials are said to be worried over the ultimate disposition of General Mena. In some quarters it is thought that exile would not be consistent with the best interests of the United States and Nicaragua, because Mena would be likely to reappear at any moment in Nicaragua and start another disturbance.

On the other hand, it is held, the United States has no legal authority to hold the rebel general, and it is thought he may eventually be turned over to the Nicaraguan authorities to do with as they see fit.

While the United States would not countenance officially the summary execution of the rebel leader, it is thought the state department would make no protest should President Diaz follow such a course. Mena, by his barbarous attack on women and children and non-combatants, and his shelling of hospitals and unprotected public houses, has, it is contended, placed himself outside the pale of civilization.

The disposition of Mena and his force, however, will depend upon the terms made by him with Admiral Southerland. If Admiral Southerland has accepted the surrender with a pledge for protection that promise will be respected by the state department, even if its redemption involves the transportation of the rebels to Panama.

In the same dispatch from Minister Weitzel which confirmed Mena's surrender, the state department learned that conditions at Granada when the American forces arrived there were pitiable. Women and children were dying in the streets from starvation, while rebel soldiers brutally attacked any one who made an outcry. What little food there was in the city had been captured by the rebels, who also cut off the supply of water. The American marines were almost mobbed when they began the distribution of the Red Cross supplies.

ULSTER READY FOR WAR

Earl of Kilmorey Declares Intention of Refusing to Submit to Home Rule.
Ballymore, Ireland, Sept. 27.—Ulstermen are praying and hoping for peace, but if that is denied to them they are ready for war, according to the Earl of Kilmorey, while addressing a big outdoor demonstration of Irish Unionists here.

Some 20,000 people from the county of Down were present at the meeting, which was the final Unionist demonstration before Ulster day (Sept. 28). The Earl of Kilmorey declared his intention of refusing to submit to home rule if the act passed. A large number of Irish peers, he said, including Field Marshal Lord Roberts and the Marquis of Dufferin, had signed a pledge not to accept a seat in either house of an Irish legislature.

Scotch troops of the line are being sent to Belfast in anticipation of trouble.

He Won Dare, But Was Killed.

JAPAN DEVASTATED BY FIERCE STORM

Thousands of Lives Are Lost in Typhoon.

Tokio, Japan, Sept. 27.—Damage exceeding $20,000,000 was caused by the typhoon, which swept Japan from end to end on Sunday, while the loss of human life was heavy and tens of thousands are homeless.

The storm was the worst that had occurred in Japan for over half a century, according to reports which have just reached the capital, which has been practically cut off from the rest of the country for days. Crops suffered severely everywhere, but the greatest damage was done in the neighborhood of the cities of Nagoya, Nara and Osaka, on the island of Honshu, and in Gifu.

At Nagoya every house was damaged and a great tidal wave demolished the harbor and sank three steamers, while several others went ashore. At Gifu 262 people were killed and 283 injured. The Kioko Maru foundered off Enshu and the whole of her crew and passengers were lost.

At Osaka 20,000 houses were ruined and all the breakwaters and the harbor piers were washed away.

HUSBAND A MULATTO

White Wife Made Discovery Four Years After Marriage.

Washington, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Annie Wilson, wife of Upton Wilson, a laborer in Washington, applied to the juvenile court for an order requiring her husband to support their two children.

In her plea Mrs. Wilson declared that she had just made the astounding discovery that for four years she had been married to a mulatto. The discovery was not made until the husband's mother came to visit them for the first time and revealed the husband's race.

Wilson had explained his color to his wife before their marriage, she declared, by stating that he was of Indian descent. The marriage occurred in Boston four years ago. The wife's maiden name was Anna Wilson. She informed the judge of the juvenile court that she quit her husband as soon as she learned he was a negro and would apply for a divorce.

An order was made by the juvenile court requiring the husband to pay $5 a week towards the support of the children.

SICKLES BITTERLY ASSAILS HIS WIFE

Says Jewels She Pawned Were His Own.

SHE DENIES STORY OF SON

Veteran Says She Has Fortune of Her
Own and $20,000 Worth of Silver
Plate Belonging to Him.

New York, Sept. 27.—Major General Daniel E. Sickles issued a statement to his "friends and comrades" explaining his attitude toward the wife, from whom he has been separated for thirty-one years, though they have been near neighbors in the vicinity of Washington Square.

The general, who is eighty-seven years old, seeks to destroy any sympathy his wife may have received after her recent announcement that she had pawned her jewels to prevent a sale of the general's valuable collection of antiques for the satisfaction of a judgment for $8000, by saying that the jewels, if she pawned them, never belonged to her, anyway, but are his own property, and that Mrs. Sickles now holds the judgment over his head.

In his statement General Sickles referred to a boy, Miguel, as being a son of Mrs. Sickles. This boy, Mrs. Sickles said, was the posthumous child of a friend of her's in Madrid. She said the mother of Miguel had died when he was born, and that his father had died previously, and that as the child was an orphan she had taken care of it.

She denied in detail all the other charges in General Sickles' statement, with the exception of the one that the judgment for $8000 had been transferred to her. She admitted that the judgment had been transferred to her, but declared that she never would attempt to collect it.

She said that the $20,000 worth of silver plate which General Sickles alleged was in her possession was in a safe deposit vault in Madrid. She declared that General Sickles was not the sole owner of all his silverware, and said that she owned part interest in it. Except for a paragraph attacking Mrs. Sickles personally, the general's statement follows:

"I am reluctantly constrained to notice the vicious misrepresentation given to the newspapers regarding my relations with my wife and her intervention in my affairs. These false aspersions have made such an unfavorable impression on my comrades and friends that I cannot remain silent any longer.

"It is asserted, for example, that my wife pawned her jewels to pay the judgment obtained against me by a trust company for $8000. It was not necessary for her to pawn jewels. She has an ample fortune of her own. And, besides, an army comrade had already arranged to satisfy the judgment.

"The fact is, she has not paid that judgment. She had it transferred to herself, and she now holds it and can enforce it at any time she may choose to do so. Moreover, many of the jewels she pawned belong to me. These were in the possession of my mother and my daughter, Laura Buchanan Sickles, and were appropriated by my wife in 1876, after the decease of my mother in Madrid. They never were the property of my wife. I never gave them to her.

"My wife has now in her possession in Madrid more than $20,000 worth of silver plate belonging to me—a dinner service for thirty-six persons, including a silver-gilt dessert set. Also many valuable pieces of silver bought by me at the sale of royal plate in the palace of Madrid. She has besides in her possession all the costly furniture that was in my palace residence, all of which were sent by her to Madrid from Paris in 1880.

"I have not lived with Mrs. S. since 1880, for good and sufficient reasons. "When I separated from my wife, in 1880, I was not even acquainted with my friend, Miss Eleanor Earle Wilmerding, whose name has been so often mentioned as the cause of the separation, for whom I have the highest esteem. Neither Miss Wilmerding nor any other of my friends have taken any part whatsoever in connection with my financial affairs nor the present situation of my domestic affairs.

"Mrs. S. has never resided in my home in New York."

MONEY BACK CATARRH REMEDY

Dosing the stomach won't kill Catarrh germs. Neither will sprays, douches, snuffs or ointments.

The quickest way to kill germs is to breathe deep into the lungs the vaporized air of Booth's HYOMEI.

As this antiseptic air passes over the sore spots infected with Catarrh germs, it not only destroys them, but heals the inflamed membrane and stops the discharge of mucus.

Then hawking, spitting, snuffing, crusts in the nose and foul breath will disappear, and vile, disgusting Catarrh will be conquered.

A complete HYOMEI outfit, which includes a hard rubber inhaler, only costs $1.00. Extra bottles, if afterwards needed, 50c; and People's Drug Store is authorized to refund your money if dissatisfied.

UNCERTAINTY IN ELECTOR MUDDLE

Wasson Doesn't Know When T. R. Men Will Resign.

CONFERENCE ON MONDAY

Announces Names of Taft Men Approved by Chairman Hillis to Take Place of Roosevelt Followers.

Philadelphia, Sept. 27.—Republican State Chairman Wasson, after injecting more uncertainty into the electoral problem with the frank admission that he really did not know when the Roosevelt electors would resign, announced that he had called a conference of the present Republican electors and of the Taft and Roosevelt state leaders for Harrisburg next Monday for the purpose of reaching some definite understanding as to when the Roosevelt men would get off the Republican electoral ticket.

At the same time Mr. Wasson announced the names of the Taft men who have been agreed upon by Republican National Chairman Hillis as the candidates who shall take the places of the Roosevelt electors when they shall have resigned.

Mr. Wasson's definite statement that he did not know when the Roosevelt men would make way for the Taft electors was regarded as surprising in view of the fact that Republican National Chairman Hillis had said on Wednesday that he had been assured the Roosevelt men would be replaced by Taft men on next Monday.

Following the luncheon given in his honor at the Union League by William T. Hilden, Mr. Hillis said with respect to the electoral question: "Mr. Wasson said publicly and also told me that the electoral matter would be consummated on next Monday. Mr. Wasson did not seem to be in doubt about it."

The following Taft men were selected to take the place of the Roosevelt electors:

WIFE NURSES MARCONI

Wireless Inventor, Injured In Auto Accident, Slightly Improved.

Spezia, Sept. 27.—The condition of Signor Marconi, who was injured in an automobile accident, is satisfactory.

His injured eye is slightly improved, but the swelling and inflammation have not abated, and for that reason the exact nature of the injury caused by the splinter of broken glass from the automobile screen has not been ascertained. It is not known whether the choroid coat or the optic nerve is affected. The doctors are hopeful that the sight will not be affected.

Signor Marconi's wife is nursing him and is either at his bedside or is busy replying to the stream of telegrams inquiring as to his condition and congratulating him on his escape from more serious injuries.

Further details of the accident show that Mr. Marconi was driving at the time, and that the automobile with which his car collided was practically wrecked. It belonged to a lawyer named Beltrame, who for thirty years resided in the United States. He was severely bruised about the breast while his son's teeth were all broken.

ALTOONA ENJOYS FIVE-MILE PARADE

100,000 Persons View Industrial Display.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 27.—One hundred thousand persons lined the route taken by the civil and industrial parade, the big feature of the last day of the semi-centennial celebration of the Loyal War Governors' Conference.

For more than two hours they watched the five-mile-long procession. Many thousands of dollars had been spent in decorating the floats, more than 100 of which were in line.

Clubs, fraternal and secret organizations, labor unions, merchants and manufacturers were represented. The Pennsylvania Railroad company's "Founders' Day" exhibit, showing the development of transportation, made a great hit. Music from twenty-five bands and drum corps filled the air.

While the parade was passing a fire escape near the reviewing stand broke, throwing several persons ten or twelve feet to the sidewalk. The owner of the building had just ordered the occupants off, in compliance with police orders.

Frank A. Fisher, thirty-six years old, of Howard, Pa.; Mansfield Boyd, forty-eight years old, and Wilma Griffith, both of Altoona, received scalp wounds, but are not believed to be seriously hurt.

Darting across the street, Albert Nina, ten years old, fell under a heavy float and had his right hand mashed. William C. Murray, thirty-four years old, of Youngstown, O., pitched head foremost off a grandstand and landed on his face.

Erie, Pa., Sept. 27.—G. F. Kinsella, ex-cashier of the Pittsburgh, Shawmut & Northern railroad and the Shawmut Commercial company, wanted in Elk county, was arrested here for alleged embezzlement and forged checks amounting to $25,000.

Kinsella will be taken to St. Mary's, Pa., by the sheriff of Elk county. It is charged that Kinsella embezzled funds of the Pittsburgh, Shawmut & Northern railroad to the extent of $14,200.57, and from the Shawmut Commercial company to the amount of $10,838.51. His bail has been fixed at $10,500.

Says Wilson Will Carry Every State.

CROPS ARE WORTH $7,000,000,000

This Year's Yields Breaks All Records.

New York, Sept. 27.—With a corn crop that is far in excess of all previous records, and a wheat yield that has never before been equaled in this country, according to the government's statistics, the farmers of the United States are enriched by the tidy sum of nearly $7,000,000,000 with which to meet the high cost of living during the coming year.

And one of the best things about agricultural prosperity in this country, financial writers say, is that it has a way of coming when other agrarian nations are in the grip of famine. The result is that the great crop in the United States helps to feed the other countries of the world whose fields have lain sallow at harvest or burned in the sunshine.

This year's bumper crop measures up 710,000,000 bushels of wheat, valued at $603,500,000; 3,00

"It happens to play the comedy part in our little mystery."
"What do you mean?"
"Only that it has a hole in the saddle for a pommel should a little girl ride in it, and the hole leads down to a hollow inside. Do you guess what it was that dropped into the hollow inside?"

"Not Mr. Taubery's diamond?"
"Exactly. Yet we have still to find out the man who put it there."
"But, in the meantime the old dealer may—"

"Tut, tut, Mr. Phillips. The old dealer has nothing to do with it. He is only obeying an order to buy the toy whatever it cost, and to keep it until called for. We may have to waste some time, so I have ordered a steak and fried potatoes in an upper room that conveniently overlooks the door of his shop. Let me show you the way."

We passed through a long bar at which a dingy assemblage lounged and smoked, and so upstairs into a private room, the windows of which commanded Ashley street. We ate our meal in relays—one watching at the window, while the other disposed of his section of stringy steak and heavy beer. The daylight softly faded the gas jets sprang out along the street, the tramp of home-coming fathers dropped into silence—but there was still no caller at the furniture shop. The shutters had been put up for the night. It seemed plain to me that nothing would happen for that evening at least, though Peace did not seem to despair.

Nine o'clock—ten o'clock—ten thirty, and the customer arrived.

I had watched his cab come rattling down the street with a casual interest, for many had come and gone since we first mounted guard. I had passed the little shop and was almost beneath us when a head was thrust out of the window and a voice cried irritably to the cabman. A street lamp showed him to me clearly—a white-faced youth with a straggly, brown mustache and an indecisive chin.

The cab turned about, and pulled up opposite the shop door. The inspector touched my arm, and we walked down the stairs, picked up our driver, who was smoking in the bar, and so bundled into our own vehicle. A few whispered instructions, and we drove slowly round the corner into Ashley street.

The customer had been expected. As we passed the shop at a walking pace I could see that the dealer and his assistant were hoisting the bicycle horse to the roof of the waiting cab. Fifty yards more and we drew up by the pavement.

Peace kept the windows closed, so that I could not look back along the road; but through the glass in front I could see that our driver was quietly taking note of affairs. It was not the first time that the inspector had employed him, as I learnt afterwards, and the man knew his business.

Suddenly our cab whisked round and set off at a rapid pace. The stranger had selected a fast horse, that was evident. We swung through a maze of narrow streets, tugged up a long hill, skirted a stretch of open common—a part of Hampstead Heath, I believe—and finally stopped in the shade of some tall trees. As I got out I saw the lights of the chaise stationary at some distance up the road.

"There may be trouble, Mr. Phillips," whispered the little detective. "I'm not certain I ought to bring you along. If anything—"

"Nonsense!" I interrupted, glancing down at him with some amusement.

"Well, take this, anyway. I had it from a German burglar."

He thrust a strip of hardened rubber into my hand, about eighteen inches in length by two in thickness. "It will stun a man without leaving a mark," he said gently.

The four-wheeler that we had followed was waiting before a green door set in a high brick wall. Without any attempt at concealment, Peace walked to the door and tried the handle. It was not locked, and we passed into a fair-sized garden, set about with flower beds and clumps of laurel. In the middle I could see the outline of a square gray house. Two of the ground floor rooms glowed behind their curtains; the rest was darkness.

We crossed a corner of the lawn, and stopped behind a patch of bushes directly in front of the entrance porch. The night was very still and silent. What desperate men were gathered in that quiet place? How could we hope to arrest them flushed with the triumph of so splendid a prize? To be truthful, I began to feel a certain anxiety for our position; though upon Peace's face, showing white in the gloom, was a look of perfect serenity—a look that I could not understand.

"Mercy, oh, mercy!"

It was a trembling wall of terror, a wall that was suddenly blotted out by a roar like the challenge of a bull. From within the house came the crash of overturned chairs and the jingle of breaking glass. And all the time the shrieks and hoarse ravings drew nearer and louder, until, with a loud bang, the hall door was flung open and a man tumbled down the steps as if thrown from a catapult. His assailant, in black silhouette against the hall lights, hesitated for a moment, stick in hand. Then, with a shout of rage, he sprang forward and struck at the moaning wretch who squirmed on the gravel at his feet.

"Now, Jack Steadman, that is quite enough," said the inspector, pushing his way through the laurels. "And who may you be?" cried the other, with a furious oath.

"My name is Addington Peace of the criminal investigation department of Scotland Yard, and I arrest you both for being concerned in the robbery of a valuable diamond, the property of Mr. Julius Taubery."

"Stolen a diamond!" he bellowed. "Do you call that a diamond?"

He flung down a stone that sparked in the lights behind him, and stamped it into the gravel with his heel.

"I am aware that it is the imitation," said the inspector. "But it was not your fault that you missed the real thing. I have a cab waiting. You had better come with me quietly. And I warn you, Steadman, that anything you say will be used in evidence against you."

It was after two in the morning before the inspector tapped at the door of my room. I had made the fourth of that odd cab load to the nearest police station; for, though Mr. Jack Steadman had blustered, and the Hon. George Carstairs had groveled and whined thicker, they had consented to go at last. And there I had left the detective and his prisoners, driving to my rooms to await his return.

"The case was not quite so difficult as you suppose, Mr. Phillips," he said, in answer to my question. "You remember that I believed the diamond to be still in the house?"

"Certainly."
"It would be hard to imagine a more useful bait. It was certain that the thieves would have another bite at it; it was also certain that I ought to be able to hook them when they did. Yet I very nearly lost the diamond, after all. Taubery, Gunton, and the servants had all declared that, since the robbery, nothing had been moved from the dining room, passage or library. There they made a mistake."

"Taubery's little grandson, George, happened to leave his toy horse in the passage from the dining room, and into the hole made for the pommel that poor creature, Carstairs, had dropped the diamond with a last despairing effort to get rid of it before Colonel Gunton searched him. Ten minutes afterwards the little boy went out for a walk with his nurse, taking the horse with him. When he returned it was left, as usual, in the servants' quarters at the back. I never set eyes on it until a day later. Even then I should not have suspected what it contained had not the nurse complained to me of a man who followed her when she took George for his daily airing in the park. That was the sign for which I had been looking."

I accompanied the pair on the following morning. I saw the man, but did not recognize him.

"Neither the nurse nor the boy could well be carrying the diamond about with them. There remained the horse. That night I extracted the real diamond, and not wishing to spoil my bait for the shy fish, I dropped the imitation stone into its place."
"The toy was watched by night and day. It was through a hint from me that it was included in the sale. Poor Colonel Gunton! I admit that his eccentric bidding startled me for a moment."

"You can understand Steadman's fury when, after all his plots and risks and expenditure, his silly dupe brought him back the identical imitation stone that had been made to deceive old Taubery. I don't believe that the Trojans could have been more astonished when the Greeks emerged from the wooden horse than was Steadman when he took out the diamond from the toy and found it to be the imitation!"

"And who was Steadman?"
"A very dangerous fellow, Mr. Phillips. I recognized him the moment he appeared at the door. For years he was a bookmaker in Paris, but left when the place got too hot for him. As a card player he is well known and avoided. He has been in low water lately. So has his dupe, Carstairs, as I now discover. Lord Wintone, a young man's brother, set him up as a coffee planter in Ceylon, but he spent all the money given him and returned six months ago. Carstairs was a distant connection of Mrs. Taubery's and both she and her husband had been very kind to him. He was always loitering about the house, getting free meals and now and then borrowing a fiver. He must have heard of the new diamond and mentioned it to Steadman; for Steadman hatched a plot—there is no doubt about that. Carstairs was merely a dupe and a villain, vicious dupe at that—he never had the ability to rise higher in crime. How the two became acquainted I do not know; but they have been seen together several times lately. You may take my word for it, that the public will be well rid of them for a year or two."

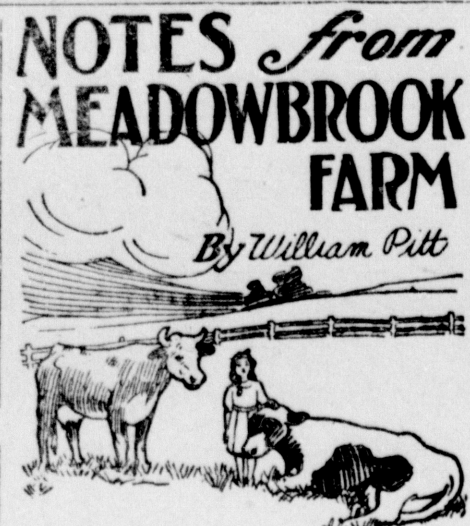

Plenty of good loose dirt should be allowed the molting hens.

The manners of the horse usually reveal the temper of his owner.

Turkeys need a wide range. They do not do well confined to yards.

Every day you keep the lambs after they are big enough to go is a loss.

Caponizing is another job the farmer neglects—and thereby loses money

Caponizing is profitable.

Range for the chicks is best.

Sheep must have some shelter.

Separate the pullets and cockerels.

Good feed, good care, good breed.

Good stock.

Some cows are better bred than their owners.

Do not put the colts in a pasture fenced by barbed wire.

Do you have a lot of young roosters? Sell them for fryers.

It's a mighty easy matter to overcrowd the chick coops now.

It may be wise to protect the colts from the flies during the day.

You cannot fatten your cattle while ticks are sucking their blood.

Hill culture produces earlier straw berries than matted row culture.

Unless a man has a great love for a horse he should not handle colts.

A sheep or calf staked in the front yard is a splendid lawn mower.

Warm skim milk for feeding purposes soon pays the cost of a farm separator.

Most of the fly dopes are fairly good but for results they have to be applied every day.

Sheep have just as important a place upon the average farm as any other live stock.

Drink is all right for the hogs, but they need some grain and vegetables to go with their milk.

There is plenty of farm talk in the air, but it is farm work that counts in the bank balance.

A good plan is to make the lots long and narrow and sow them to pasture, plowing up alternately.

Remember, chick coops are very apt to become foul and unhealthy while the weather is so sultry.

It will only take about half as much grain and other feed to raise a litter of pigs if they be given pasture.

There is nothing about fatter fatten that would have a depressing influence upon the milk flow of the cow.

There are about a dozen different breeds of dairy cattle and the best of them all is the kind that suits you best.

The best flavored butter is obtained by ripening or souring cream until from 5 to 6 per cent. of acid has been developed.

Roughness cannot be made to entirely take the place of grain, but a heavy crop of roughness is not to be despised.

Ground limestone is preferable to burnt lime unless two tons of the former cost considerably more than one ton of the latter.

There are very few farms on which additional labor expended in preparing the seed bed would not yield handsome returns.

A wide range and frequent exchange of pasture will reduce the ravages of the stomach worm, that fearful enemy of the sheep.

An enterprising farmer living near a town of 5,000 or more can sell every pound of his butter at full retail prices or little above the year round.

The man who is trying to raise hogs without pasture and forage crops is like a puppy chasing his tail. He gets plenty of exercise, but nothing else.

Sore shoulders on a horse are nothing less than shameful, and no man should consider himself worthy who permits them to appear upon his work animals.

If horses are inclined to nab at each other between the stalls, put up some tight wire as a partition. They can see through this all right and still not reach each other.

The first incubators used in the United States were tested in 1876. Now thousands are in use in every state in the Union and wonderful progress has been made. In fact, without the use of incubators and brooders, the big commercial plants of today would be impossible.

Water the horse before you give him hay. Hay before grain, concentrates last.

Good feed will put life into a horse a hundred times better than an 8-foot whip.

Pasture and exercise develops a strong frame in all kinds of young stock.

Rye may be sown in the fall and used as a late fall and early spring pasture.

ANOTHER KIND OF FINANCE.

Norman B. Mack, who is a politician and who, therefore, never tells anything but the truth, relates this story about himself:

"On one of my trips to New York I had to visit a bank that is not very well known. I got mixed up in my sense of location, and finally I asked a newsboy to direct me to the building, telling him that I would give him half a dollar for his services. He agreed and led me to the bank, which was only four doors away."

"That," I remarked, as I gave him the money, "was half a dollar easily earned."
"I know it," he said, "but, boss, you must remember that bank directors are paid high in New York."—Popular Magazine.

Handy to Have Around.

"Are you one of those who believe the dog is man's most faithful friend?"
"I must admit that I am not."
"Then you, I take it, do not keep a dog?"

"Oh, yes, I keep one, but not because I like the brutes. It happens that the one we have always howls unmercifully when my wife tries to sing."—Judge.

THIRSTY.

"I certainly think these professional men play into one another's hands."
"What do you mean by that?"
"A doctor charged for advising me to get right out into the country, and while there, in order to kill time, I made love to a rural maiden, and now I'm paying a lawyer to defend me in a breach of promise case."—Satire.

Ready to Oblige.

Little James, while at a neighbor's, was given a piece of bread and butter, and politely said, "Thank you."
"That's right, James," said the lady; "I like to hear little boys say 'Thank you.'"
"Well," rejoined James, "if you want to hear me say it again, you might put some jam on it."

In Gay New York.

Uncle Ben had just returned from his first visit to the metropolis.
"How'd you like the city?" inquired the loungers at the corner grocery.
"Just rate," replied Uncle Ben, "only they's so many men wearin' uniforms 'at everybody looked like either bandboys or policemen."

Mrs. Henpeck—Why not?

Paradoxical.

"Do you notice how oddly people are talking about the weather?"
"What do you mean?"
"They are so warmly praising this cool summer."
